Summary:

The investigation revealed that the suspect, John Calvin Chewning, entered the Rite Aid pharmacy department armed with a handgun. Once inside he took prescription medication and then fled the area on foot. Rite Aid employees notified police of the robbery and officers responded to the scene. A description of the robbery suspect was relayed to officers and they began checking the area. At approximately 11:25 a.m., officers located a male matching the description of the suspect in an apartment complex parking lot located in the 200 block of Clemwood Parkway. As officers approached, the suspect brandished a handgun, which was later determined to be a BB CO2-style gun, and officers shot the suspect. Medics responded to the scene and the suspect was pronounced deceased.
